Coping with kidney disease? We're here for you.

Talk on the phone with someone who's been there.

The National Kidney Foundation (NKF) can connect you with another kidney patient who can:

- Listen to your concerns and support you
- Share their personal experience about living well with kidney disease, dialysis or transplant
- Answer questions and share resources to help you
- Provide tools to help you find a living kidney donor

This one-on-one, confidential support is available for kidney patients with advanced or worsening disease. NKF also connects living kidney donors with people who are thinking about donating a kidney.
